Adolescents Narrating Civic Action in Northern Ireland, South Africa and the United States

Sarah W. Freedman and Karen Murphy

The Skylight Room (9100)

What are the uses of narrative as a means of examining and participating in social and individual consciousness and change? Join Sarah W. Freedman (Professor of Education, University of California, Berkeley) and Karen Murphy (Director of International Programs, Facing History and Ourselves) as they talk about their ongoing collaboration focusing on possible processes of change in societies that have perpetuated long-term narratives of division, conflict, and violence.

Co-sponsored by the Narrating Change Seminar and the Ph.D. Program in Developmental Psychology

Free and open to the public. All events take place at The Graduate Center, CUNY, 365 Fifth Ave btwn 34th & 35th. The building and the venues are fully accessible. For more information please visit <http://centerforthehumanities.org/> or call 212.817.2005 or e-mail ch@gc.cuny.edu
